NEWS BY THE MAILS.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—The rumor is current that the President, during the recess, will issue a proclamation declaring the rebellion at an end, and placing all the States in the same position as they were previous to the war. He has sufficiently tested Congress, and will enact some coup d'etat to head off radicalism.

It is said that the French Minister has become quite alarmed respecting the answer of Secretary Seward sent to the Emperor's letter asking for the recognition of Maximilian's government in Mexico, and as much so with reference to the resolutions lately introduced into Congress on the subject of the Monroe doctrine. It is understood the Minister has left for New York, where he will remain until he hears from the Emperor.

Advices from Havana and Vera Cruz state that additional forces are being forwarded to Mexico; twenty-five hundred French troops had already arrived at latter port. Latest intelligence from Paris states that six thousand French soldiers had embarked for Mexico. It would seem that Napoleon has anticipated and is preparing to meet the policy of the United States in reference to the Mexican Republic. Letters from New Orleans dated the 12th inst., state that an old and estimable citizen of New Orleans returned from Matamoras, was intimate there with French officers. He says they fully anticipate war between France and the United States, and believe it will commence on the Rio Grande. They already have a plan of the campaign mapped out, which anticipates the sudden crossing of United States troops over the Rio Grande on pontoons, they will then abandon Matamoras and the Rio Grande, and fall back on Monterey, which will be held as a strategic point. These officers claim to be thoroughly informed as to all the means the United States have at their disposal here and in Texas for an advance into Mexico.

A Vera Cruz letter says troops from France continue to arrive, six hundred more disembarking on the 2d instant, who were immediately sent into the field.

There is great anxiety to ascertain what will be the ultimate action of the United States in regard to Mexico. Among the imperialists they were greatly excited by the last news informing them that Gen. Grant had publicly expressed sympathy with the Republican cause; that General Logan was appointed Minister to the government of Juarez; that Sheridan's army was on the Rio Grande, and was being reinforced.

The French officers and soldiers in the Imperial army openly express strong hatred for the United States, and desire to fight Americans.

Two important decrees were lately issued by Maximilian. One of them extending for fifteen days, from the 29th of November, the time in which the soldiers of President Juarez's Government laying down their arms, to be granted amnesty; and another ordering a general draft for his army throughout Mexico.

WASHINGTON Dec. 18.—The radical ball opened in the House of Representatives this afternoon, in committee of the whole, on the usual reference of the President's message to the standing committees. Mr. Thaddeus Stevens, in a speech of nearly an hour's duration, laid down the most ultra programme, even out Heroding his famous Lancaster speech made in September. He was listened to with marked attention by the crowded galleries and the members of the House, the latter crowding around the speaker, while a goodly proportion of the Senators were also present.

Mr. Stevens read his carefully prepared manuscript. He started out with the broad declaration that the States lately at war with the government were not in the Union, and that if they were admitted again, they must come in as new States or conquered provinces after passing through territorial condition. He elaborated the argument that the so-called Confederate States were belligerents, and that during the war, according to the decisions of the United States Supreme Court and international law, the respective parties "stood in the same relation to each other as if they were separate nations."—Having conquered them as public enemies, he maintained that the government had the right to treat them as conquered provinces. Among the requirements which he advocated as precedent to the readmission of these States, was the amendment of the Constitution so that there could be an election for President and a representation in Congress on the basis of population. This, by recognizing the colored people of the South, would give the new States an increased representation in Congress. If the present basis were not changed, he charged that the democrats would soon lay hands on the White House and the halls of Congress, and they would therefore repudiate the federal debt and assume the rebel one! In such an event he claimed "that if the Southern States should then repudiate the Constitution lately forced upon them, it would be right and just."

He proceeded to assume that Congress should control the freedmen, for if left to take care of themselves their present condition would be worse than bondage or the horrors of Andersonville. He made light of the ratification of the constitutional amendment abolishing slavery, by the Southern State legislatures, which he denounced as illegal and delusive, and declared that this was not a white man's government, and looked upon Chief Justice Taney's virtual declaration that it was, as the most infamous doctrine of all time! He added that it was fortunate that the whole question of restoration belonged with Congress.

Mr. Raymond, of N. Y., took notes during the speech, and at its conclusion rose to reply, but a motion prevailed that the committee of the whole rise, and further debate was cut off.

NEW GOODS.

New Line Opened! Makes Two Trips to the Old Line's One!

A. CREECH HAS JUST RETURNED FROM the North, where he has bought his second supply of

STAPLE AND FANCY DRY GOODS,

Embracing the various New Styles of the Season, together with Ladies' Cloaks, Long Shawls, Breakfast Shawls, Ladies and Misses' Goods, Ladies and Misses' Hoop Skirts, Ladies and Misses' Balmoral Shoes, Gent's Boots and Shoes, Boys, Youths and Children's Boots and Shoes, Felt Hats, the Derby, the Dasher, the Planter's wide brim, and other styles for Men's wear. Boys, Youths and Children's Hats. Wood and Willow Ware, Crockery and Glass Ware, and a superior lot of Family Groceries.

Take my stock altogether, I have one among the largest and most desirable and complete stocks of Staple and Fancy Dry Goods in the City.

Now allow me to say that I bought my Goods to sell, and they must and shall be sold; but I don't expect to take a piece of poetry in one hand and a full grown humbug in the other and climb up to the clouds and fish out the birds of Paradise and gently bring them down with a placard stuck on their backs, "Selling out at Cost! selling out at cost!" No, I deal in no such humbug. I keep no such a class of Goods. I keep no time worn shelf-rubbed, defaced or dusty Goods—dust so thick you can rub it off with a knife. My Goods are all new, and of good styles, and I intend to sell them as low as anybody that bought goods with the expectation of paying for them, and the man that sold the goods to the man that don't intend to pay for them, is a fool—and the man that sells them is a rascal. Now this is plain talk, but 'tis no slip of the tongue. I mean what I say, and say what I mean. I have lived here and sold goods here for twenty years. I expect to remain here. I pay my taxes to support Institutions of the City, County and the State. I expect to continue to do so. I respectfully ask my old customers, my old friends and new ones to call and examine my stock. I will deal with you honest and treat you right. If I don't sell you goods as cheap as you can buy the same class of goods elsewhere I don't expect you to buy. Call at the B. Smith building, house formerly occupied by Creech & Litchford, Merchants and Auctioneers.

THE DAILY SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, Editor.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1865.

OUR TERMS.

THE SENTINEL is issued every morning (Sunday excepted) at the following rates:

For Daily, per year,	$10 00
" six months,	5 00
" one month	1 00
" two months	2 00
Semi-Weekly per year,	5 00
Weekly per year,	3 00

Our terms are invariably in advance. The Weekly and Semi-weekly will be issued about the first of January. Money may be sent us by the Rail Road conductors or the Express Companies.

THE PEOPLE must be trusted with their Government, and if trusted, my opinion is that they will act in good faith, and restore their former constitutional relations with all the States composing the Union.—Andrew Johnson's Letter to Gov. Sharkey, of Mississippi.

To Subscribers.

Many to whom the Sentinel has been sent have not paid us. We need the money badly. Please send it to us at once.

On and after the 1st of January next, the Sentinel will not be sent except upon the receipt of the Cash in advance. Our friends will remember this.

Orders for the Weekly and Semi-weekly had better be sent in at once with the Cash. Send money by private hands or by the Express Companies.

Gov. Holden.

The Sentinel intimates that Gov. Holden is opposed to the restoration of this State to the Union, in order that he may remain in office.—Standard.

We have no recollection of having used any expression in our columns, whose legitimate meaning conveys any such impression. It is a strained inference of the Standard which nothing that we have said, or at least intended to say, justifies. We have certainly not felt inclined or justified in attributing to him such a motive, from any thing that we have seen or heard, so coming from him. If however, we were to hold the Governor responsible for what appears in the Standard, it would not be difficult to show that he is holding on out of sheer spite at the people of North Carolina for not voting for him at the late election, and by this means to punish them for it. But we have attributed no such motive to him, and the Standard knows it.

We suppose that Gov. Holden holds on at the request of the President—that the President desires it because he has received the impression, that our people did not act properly during the late election. How the President received this impression, otherwise than through the columns of the Standard and Progress, we do not know. But we are sure, if we are correct in the supposition that the President is laboring under an impression so derogatory to the loyalty of the people of the State, that some one or more has done great injustice to our people.

Furthermore, it is due to Gov. Holden and to the President, and it is eminently due to the people of North Carolina, that this impression should be removed from the President's mind.—No one can do this so properly as Gov. Holden himself. And we appeal to him to do it. He owes it to himself, to his repeated public declarations prior to the election, and in his late message to the Legislature, sustaining the loyalty of our people, to do it,—he owes it to his life-long protestations of devotion to the welfare of North Carolina and her people, to do it—he owes it to the confidence which the people of the State repose in the integrity and magnanimity of President Johnson, to do it—he owes it to the memories of the past and the hopes of the future, to do it.

No one knows better than Gov. Holden does, how seriously and injuriously the present incertitude and doubt, which hang over the future of the State, are affecting the material interests of our people. Every species of business, agriculture, mechanism, mining, in fact every thing, depends upon the activity, the energy, and the industry of our people, and these are paralysed by the present condition of affairs.

It is not the presence of the military—not the refusal of Congress to receive our delegates—that operates as an incubus upon our people; but the absence of the freedom and stimulant which the presence of the civil law imparts, that is needed, to put in motion every energy and interest of the State.

If the government deem it safest to the public peace and order for the military to remain a while longer in the State, let it be done. If Congress insist upon it that our delegates are not yet ready for admission, let it be so. These disabilities we desire removed, but these can be borne as long as the government deems it necessary. No objection lies against Gov. Holden as Provisional Governor, so long as the Provisional government exists. But what is now needed to give confidence and hope to our people and to spring their energies, is the assurance that they have the protection and the freedom which civil law gives.

Now we say, and we think Gov Holden must see it, that however much he may have felt disturbed at the late election, he has no good ground to suspect the fidelity of our people to the government; and that he owes it to himself, owes it to the President, owes it to Gov. Worth, and above all, owes it to the people of North Carolina, their past and future, to do what he can to remove the unjust suspicions which have been excited against the State, and to restore at an early day civil law and civil government.

Althorpe.

We are much obliged to our gifted correspondent for the "Christmas" article which appears to-day. The suggestion in regard to literary articles is appreciated, and we know no one whose assistance in that regard we crave more than Althorpe's. Literary articles either original or selected are always desirable, and we solicit favors from all our friends.

The Raleigh Telegrams.

On account of our great reluctance to notice in any way, the source whence emanates these telegrams, we have forbone to say, what perhaps, duty to our people required. The article of the Petersburg Index which we insert to-day, will give some idea of the grounds of complaint, which North Carolinians have against the author of these telegrams.

It will be remembered what universal indignation was excited months ago, against the author of certain false and defamatory articles which appeared in the Northern papers, coming from the agent of the Associated Press in this State. The only paper in the State which gave "aid and comfort" or countenance to the author of these dispatches, was the Progress. We denounced the author or authors of them as retailers of falsehood and libellers of our people. The Standard at that time nobly joined us in vindication of our people, and we regret that it has since allowed its personal feelings growing out of the late election to change its course, and to imitate the pernicious and perfidious example of the Progress.

More than a month ago, we learned that the editor of the Progress had been appointed or was the recognised agent of the Associated Press, and that he was to be the individual upon whom the press and public were to rely for correct items of intelligence from this city. As soon as we heard it, we made known to the gentlemanly manager of the telegraph office in this city, Mr. O'Brien, our opposition to this appointment or to the appointment of any one to that position who was connected with the press here. Mr. O'B. replied that the telegraph company had nothing to do with the matter, but the Agent of the Associated Press would soon be here, to whom we could enter our complaint. When Mr. Pritchard, the Agent of the Associated Press arrived, we were invited to a conference with him and the other members of the Daily Press. In the presence of the editor of the Progress, we objected to his continuance in the position of Agent of the Press in this city, upon the ground that his dispatches were tinged or tainted with his peculiar views, and that they were so constructed, that while they might not be palpably false, they conveyed a false impression, and cited a dispatch in proof. Mr. Pennington said he had not sought the position, was entirely willing for any one else to have it, and had only followed instructions in the preparation of his dispatches. We insisted that no member of the daily press should act in that capacity, because whatever might be his purpose to do right or justly, his dispatches would be colored or at least those opposed in sentiment might think so. Mr. P. insisted that he had simply given the truth. We admitted that while the facts might be strictly true in the case of Hon. C C. Clark elected over Mr. Lehman, yet the distinct impression made by his telegram, was that Mr. Lehman failed to be elected because he could take the oath, or because the people of that District were too disloyal to vote for him—an inference which we contended was both unjust and untrue.

Most of his dispatches since, though not couched in similar language, have given dissatisfaction in the State, and the article of the Petersburg Index shows that in Virginia, they are esteemed as objectionable and partizan.

We write this article in order to advise the the people of North Carolina and the public, that the author of the Associated press dispatches from this city, is John L. Pennington, who is a fit successor to the notorious agent of the Associated Press, some months ago, who is now generally believed to have been a man named Carpenter, who was appointed a notary public in Newbern by Gov. Holden. We are sure the Governor would not have appointed him, with the knowledge that he was the author of the Associated Press dispatches.

A Model Editor.

The following letter from our esteemed friend E. J. Hale, Esq., fully explains itself. We regret much the delay in the arrival of the Sentinel at Fayetteville. Our package is regularly sent daily by the way of Warsaw, and ought to arrive promptly. We find it equally difficult to get our paper in time to Wilmington and other points beyond Goldsboro. The letter bears date the 15th inst., but did not come to hand until the 22d.

Our object however, was to express our entire approval of and our admiration for the course of Mr. Hale, in persistently refusing all persuasions to accept public office of any kind. We suppose he has been urged perhaps a hundred times to allow the use of his name for public office, but he has always declined. In this he has shown his unselfishness and preference for private life.

By the way, we feel exceedingly anxious for the re-appearance of the Fayetteville Observer. It is an institution which the public cannot much longer dispense with. We hope the arrangements of the mails will soon enable the proprietors to issue it.

FAYETTEVILLE, Dec. 15th, 1865.

EDITOR OF THE SENTINEL—Dear Sir: We have had no Raleigh papers of later date than the 9th inst., until a moment ago I saw in the hands of a traveler one of the 13th, in which, to my surprise and regret, I find that I was voted for for one of the Councillors of State. Allow me to state, that if I had known or supposed that any member intended to nominate me for that or any other office, I should, whilst thanking him for his kind intention, have peremptorily declined the honor. I have not been a candidate for any office.

Yours truly, E. J. HALE.

Orange County.

Upon the resignation of Gov. Graham as Senator from the County of Orange, an order was passed that a writ of election be issued to the Sheriff of Orange declaring the position vacant, and that an election to supply the vacancy be held on the 14th inst., we believe. Has any election been held to supply the vacancy? If so, who was elected? If not, why not?

Upon the election of Mr. Pool, U. S. Senator he tendered his resignation, and an order was issued to supply the vacancy on the 21st inst.—Has the necessary writ been issued in that case? We have not heard from either point.

PERSONAL.—We had the pleasure, yesterday morning of a call from Colonel Cameron, member of the State Legislature from Richmond county. The Colonel is en route to his home, having discharged his duty to his constituents and the State at Raleigh, to his own satisfaction, and unquestionably to the satisfaction of those who sent him there. The Colonel is fully impressed with the idea that this State has done all that is required of it to secure its reinstatement in the Union, in which idea he is certainly honest, and, we may be permitted to hope, correct. The Colonel should be called upon to define his position as a Union man.

The above from the Wilmington Herald we do not understand. It "had the pleasure" of a call from Jno. W. Cameron, Esq., the member from Richmond, and yet winds up with what we understand to be an attack upon the Colonel's loyalty. "The Colonel should be called upon to define his position as a Union man." Well, we hope the Colonel will regard that as a call, and gratify the Herald to its heart's content. If the Herald has not caught a Tartar this time, then we are mistaken.—[ED. SENTINEL.]

A misfortune of the present condition of the South, and of the proscription under which her people lie, is the inducement thereby offered to informers. Of all classes of men, informers are the most odious; and of all informers, the political informer is the most despicable. Yet the proscription of some, brings opportunity to others, that is sure to yield its crop of interested tell-tails, and worse than that, of slanderers and Titus Oatesses. As long as the government keeps its ears open to such, there will always be found those who will fill it, for their interested ends, and with stories to suit the occasion.

One of the most revolting illustrations of this, which we have lately seen, is furnished us from North Carolina. The editor of the Fayetteville News, having been arrested and carried to Raleigh for trial, by the military, on the charge of using seditious language, the Progress, elated by the incident, improves the occasion by trying to secure a like treatment to the editor of the Raleigh Sentinel; and demands the pulling down of the Charlotte Times and Wilmington Dispatch. It is a sad state of things when newspapers display such maligoity towards their own craft, or resort to such modes of disposing of rivals for the popular favor.

The above deserved notice by the Richmond Sentinel, saves the necessity of any notice from us. As to ourself, the gyrations of our neighbors give us no concern. Gen. Ruger and Gov. Holden are men of sense, and don't mind the barking of fices; nor do we. When we cannot be a better citizen and a better friend of the Union and of the State, than either of our comteporaries, we shall stop the Sentinel and leave the country. We will do the same, when we cannot conduct it without offending the feelings of three fourths of the people of the State.—ED. SENTINEL.

"Mr. Graham was sent to Richmond with the hope that he had the moral courage to brave Jefferson Davis, and other leaders, and demand in the name of his suffering people, peace!—Peace with a restoration of the Union, and upon such terms as the national government should offer."—Peace with a restoration of the Union, and upon such terms as the national government should offer. That was what the Union conservatives of North Carolina desired when Mr Graham was sent to Richmond, and they looked to him with a lively hope; but like Vance he deceived them.—They asked for peace and he gave them conscriptions and war; for bread, he gave them a stone."

The above extract we clip from the leading editorial of the Raleigh Progress of the 19th inst.

It asserts that Mr. Graham was sent to the Confederate Congress to brave the then President of the Confederate States, and demand "Peace with a restoration of the Union, and upon such terms as the National Government should offer."

This is an evident falsification of the history of the period, and of the motives governing the majority who elected Gov. Graham. We assert that at the time of the election of Gov. Graham no prominent man in the State, and no newspapers, even the Progress, which was among the very first to turn its back upon a cause, which its editor never defended with his body in the field, and to "eat dirt," had advocated a "restoration of the Union upon such terms as the National government should offer." The Progress knows that even during the last Legislature, while Sherman was making his triumphal march through the South, burning and destroying, that a prominent leader of the party with which the Progress was then acting, looked upon it as a personal insult to be classed among the Reconstructionists, and his course was approved by the Progress and Standard. This same gentleman, one of the most talented of the young men of the State, now occupies a seat upon the judicial bench, by the appointment of the Provisional Governor, and the late Legislature elected him to the same exalted position.

It is true that at the time of the election of Gov. Graham to the Senate, not only the Progress, but the entire people of the State were in favor of 'peace,' but it was "peace" upon the basis of the independence of the South, and not "upon such terms as the national government should offer."

"Like Vance he deceived them." Gov. Vance never deceived the people of North Carolina.—He told them in the canvass of 1864 that he favored a vigorous prosecution of the war, believed it the only means of securing an honorable peace, and was triumphantly elected over the chosen candidate of the Progress, and the "peace party," by the unprecedented majority of forty-two thousand votes.

Governor Vance was a Union man when after the Progress had been swallowed up in the vortex of Secession; but when the Convention of North Carolina called him to the field, he went, and manfully battled for the cause, till chosen by the people, from the head of his regiment, and in front of the foe, to fill the Gubernational chair of the State. That position he filled most ably, and to the entire satisfaction of all, but a few malcontents, till the final overthrow of the Confederacy.

The names of Vance and Graham will be household words in North Carolina, long after those of their vilifiers and traducers shall have "slept the sleep which knows no waking."

The attacks of the Progress upon Gov. Graham, Gov. Vance, or upon any respectable gentleman in the State, are so impotent, as really not to deserve a notice for North Carolina readers.—Hence we seldom notice what it says. But its impositions upon the Northern people render it perhaps necessary, to notice it occasionally, and we are obliged to our confrere of the Goldsboro News for the above.

A word or two more and we are done with the fowling piece: It had better keep quiet. Its influence is gone; it has been foiled in everything it has undertaken of late; and is unacceptable to the people of North Carolina—much more so than many of those who have not been long in the "settlement."

Our cotemporary, the Wilmington Dispatch, thus closes a spirited reply to our neighbor.—The Dispatch shows that it is a good hand in the use of a fowling-piece.

That Memorial.

The memorial to President Johnson urging the speedy restoration of civil government to the State, which was introduced by Mr. Blackmer in the House and which passed so unanimously, we observe has been copied by our exchanges and highly complimented. It was a truthful and timely document. It was passed by the House and sent to the Senate in full time to have it acted upon.

It was a document that bore upon its face careful preparation, and having been considered by the House and printed, required no reference to a committee of the Senate. But this was done, perhaps with the view of preventing its passage. There was ample time for it to be reported upon and passed, and yet it was allowed to slumber some where, it may be in the breeches pocket of the Chairman of the Committee, until the Senate adjourned. We ask the people to note that. We shall no doubt have occasion to allude to it again.

For the Sentinel.

CHRISTMAS FOR 1865.

"The time draws near the birth of Christ,
The moon is hid; the night is still;
The Christmas bells from hill to hill,
Answer each other in the mist.

Sweet voices change upon the wind,
That now dilate, and now decrease,
Peace and good will, good will and peace,
Peace and goos will to all mankind!"

Just one year ago I read with great satisfaction an editorial in the Richmond Examiner commencing, "Next year, please God, we shall have a merry Christmas;" and with that text proceeding in the clear, vigorous and trenchant style for which the Examiner editorials were so famous, and which never failed to carry conviction to such weak minded persons as the present writer—proceeding I say, to demonstrate in the most lucid manner that in the course of 1865, the invaders would assuredly be driven out, and the sunny South would long before next Christmas, be sitting prosperously under its own peculiar vine and fig-tree.

Ah me! how eagerly I read it! How triumphantly I referred to it. I bolstered up my fainting hopes with its brave words. I smothered my rising fears I resolved unanimously that it would be even so. Never mind about right or wrong. The South must prevail. I declare I wanted to send the Examiner a hundred dollars in gold for that very article, but not having quite that much even in Confederate money, I refrained.

"Next Christmas" has come. Shall we twine the holly and the bay, and light up their dark verdure with the glow of festal fires? Will Santa Claus come this year, and bring something better than sorghum candy and rag babies? What are the prospects for the stockings of the rising generation at daylight on this Christmas morning next ensuing? For my part I am thankful that I live in a part of the country so remote, unfriended, melancholy and slow, that even Yankee enterprise has not penetrated so far with the china dolls and French candies which would only aggravate the eyesight of a penniless public. Ah no! it has not pleased God that we should have a merry Christmas this year. The very hand that penned those hopeful words has become dust and ashes. Our hopes have become dust and ashes, and we are paying the forfeit of our delusions and mistakes. Never perhaps, since the chivalrous Highlanders dared to oppose "with simple claymore and target" the whole colossal power of England, in the vain endeavor to overthrow civil and religious liberty in the land, and replace the Stuarts on the throne—never was there a more complete triumph of sentiment over reason than in the South during the past four years. Feeling versus common sense. Feeling had it all her own way, and here we are!

But merry Christmas! Christmas gifts! Not for us. Oh Southerners! are the merry associations of this blessed festival this year. The blackness of ashes marks where too many of our homes once stood—too many voices that once reechoed the greetings of the day are hushed.

"With trembling fingers we should weave
The holly round our Christmas hearth."

Sitting low in the dust this year, the South plans no Christmas revels. We have not the means to procure dainties, nor the heart to prepare them. In silence we bow to the inscrutable will of God that hath humbled and stripped us, and learn to ponder, as never before, the annunciation words that ushered in the first Christmas,

"Peace and good will towards men."

Peace we have, not of our own seeking, but peace nevertheless. Now friends and neighbors,—fellow sufferers—shall we not have the "good will" also? Let us endeavor after it. It is good to be in the valley of humiliation sometimes, so we lose not our faith in God. "He that is down, need fear no fall"—there is some consolation in that surely. Good will towards men—we must have it, and without any exceptions. Let us first be heartily reconciled to our brother—Jonathan—and then on Christmas day, having no other viands, we may feed sweetly on this, "Forgive, and ye shall be forgiven." The South has a great duty to perform in this matter, and the sooner she rises to it, the better for her. Though it cost a struggle like that of death, yet it must be done. WE MUST FORGIVE. So may our new year dawn on a new life, a renewed faith, and a clearer vision.

"Ring out, wild bells, to the wild sky,
The flying cloud, the frosty light;
The year is dying in the night;
Ring out wild bells, and let him die.

Ring out the old, ring in the new,
Ring happy bells across the snow;
The year is dying, let him go;
Ring out the false, ring in the true.

Ring out the grief that saps the mind,
For those that here we see no more;
Ring out the feud of rich and poor,
Ring in redress to all mankind.

Ring out a slowly dying cause,
And ancient forms of party strife;
Ring in the nobler forms of life,
With sweeter manners, purer laws.

Ring out false pride in place and blood,
The civic slander and the spite;
Ring in the love of truth and right,
Ring in the common love of good.

Ring out old shapes of foul disease,
Ring out the narrowing lust of gold;
Ring out the thousand wars of old,
Ring in the thousand years of peace.

Ring in the valiant man and free,
The larger heart, the kindlier hand;
Ring out the darkness of the land,
Ring in the Christ that is to be."

ALTHORPE.

COTTON IN NEW YORK.—The New York Express says, "The cotton coming into this port does not diminish. For the week ending Thursday, it reached 31,592 bales, and, since July, 1,562,089 bales, against 94,060 last year. About all the arrivals this year came from domestic ports, and the bulk of it direct from New Orleans Savannah, Mobile, Florida, and North and South Carolina. Only 3,628 bales came from Galveston last week, and 7,706 by rail."

There is now a continuous line of railroad from the capital of the Union to the capital of Kansas, about 1,300 miles.

CITY AND STATE ITEMS.

Christmas Holidays.

No class of men need and deserve the recreation of the Christmas holidays more than the printers. In order to afford them this privilege the publishers of the city, at least some of them, have agreed to issue no paper after Saturday morning until the following Thursday morning, the 28th December. The Legislature and Congress are both taking recess, and we hope there will be no news, at least, no bad news, between Saturday and Thursday.

Ladies Fair.

The ladies connected with the Methodist Congregation in this City will hold a fair in the Senate Chamber at the Capitol, on Friday and Saturday evenings the 22d, and 23d inst. to raise funds for a benevolent purpose.

Tickets for sale at the door. Doors open each evening at 7 o'clock.

The Field and Fireside.

The second number of this journal shows that the spirit of enterprise and improvement, propels its proprietors. Messrs. W. B. Smith & Co., deserve the public patronage both on account of the merit of their publications and their indomitable energy. We hope the Field and Fireside will grow in interest and public favor weekly.

The Enterprise.

Rev. Mr. Branson, proposes to publish a weekly family newspaper with this title. The prospectus explains its aims and character.

THE COMMERCIAL.—Mr. John Spelman proposes to issue a daily paper in Newbern with the above title, to commence about the 1st of January next.

An Opinion as is an Opinion--The Question of Reconstruction Finally Settled by Mr. S. Colfax.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 17.—Hon. Schuyler Colfax, in a speech at a complimentary banquet given him in this city, said that in regard to all the problems growing out of the subject of reconstruction, "If 'twere well done, if we are certain that it were well done, then 'twere well it were done quickly; but if it were not well done when 'tis done, then we should make haste slowly."

From Mexico.

We have seen a letter from Governor Henry W. Allen, dated at the City of Mexico on the 3d instant. Generals Price and Shelby, Governor Harris and Judge Perkins, were still at Cordova; General Magruder, Captain Maury and Governor Reynolds, of Missouri, were in the City of Mexico, in the civil service of the Empire.—Agents were about being sent to all the large cities in this country and Europe to invite colonists.

The Governor says: "The Empire is an accomplished fact. Law and order is being restored, and the Juarez party is on its last legs—Robbers and other evil-doers will soon be cleared out. The climate here is delightful, the lands rich and money plentiful.—N. Y. News.

TENNESSEE LEGISLATURE.—The Legislature of Tennessee, owing to the strenuous opposition of the Union members from East Tennessee, having refused to allow negro testimony to be taken in the Courts of that State, General Fisk has been directed by the War Department to try all cases, where negro testimony is involved, before a special court, under the auspices of the Freedmen's Bureau.

SECRETARY STANTON.—The New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger writes: "Secretary Stanton has written to intimate personal friends here that he will resign his place in the cabinet immediately after the 1st of January.—His health, he says, needs repose, and his private business affairs require attention. Possibly he may visit Europe in the Spring. Mr. Stanton has left Washington for his home in Pennsylvania to spend the holidays.

A Carolina Witness.

They have a curious specimen of human nature in North Carolina. Everybody remembers the celebrated "Cousin Sally Dillard case," and here is one recently reported, which is not far behind it. The writer gives it under the head of "legal proceedings:"

Action for work and labor done in cutting a ditch on defendant's land. Plea: payment and set-off, in bacon and cornmeal.

Plaintiff's son on the stand—recollects the ditching perfectly, but seems to forget all about the bacon.

"You say your daddy did all this ditching?—Do you know what he got for it?" inquired Col. C., for defendant.

"He never got nothing for it, as I ever heard on; that's what he never got," answered the witness.

"Didn't your daddy get corn and bacon from defendant in paying for ditching?

"Never heard of his getting no corn nor bacon."

"What did your daddy and his family live on last summer?"

"Vittles, mostly."

"What sort of victuals?"

"Well, meat and bread, and some whiskey."

"Where did he get that meat and bread?"

"Well, fust from one, and then from the other."

"Didn't he get some of it from defendant?"

"He moughtn't."

"I know that he moughtn, but did he? That's the question."

"Well, he moughtn, and then again, you know, he moughtn't."

With considerable excitement, and in tones of thunder—

"Answer the question, and no more of this trifling with your oath. Did your daddy, or did he not, get corn and bacon from the defendant, for ditching?"

"Well, now, he moughtn; it did'nt occur edzactly, you know."

Here his Honor interferes, and with a stern judicial frown, addresses the witness thus:

"Witness, you must answer the question, or the Court will be compelled to deal with you.—Can't you say yes or no?"

"I reckon."

"Well, then, answer yes or no. Did or did not your daddy get corn and bacon from the defendant at the time referred to?" inquired the Court.

Witness, now fully aroused, and conscious of his danger—

"Well, Judge, I cant't edzactly remember, you know, seem' as how it's all dun been gone and eat up; but," planting himself firmly as one determined to out with it, "to the best of my reckerlectshun, if my memory serves me right, he moughtn, and then agn, he moughtn't."

The plaintiff saved his bacon. Verdict accordingly.

The above is a good joke, but we have no evidence it occurred in North Carolina alone.—ED. SENTINEL.]

Brigham Young has promised to build that portion of the Pacific Road that will run through Utah.

Congress.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.

SENATE.

Mr. Howard offered a resolution calling on the President to inform the Senate upon what charges Mr. Davis is confined, and why he is not brought to trial.

The following were announced as the Senate Committee on reconstruction: Fessenden, Grimes, Harris, Howard, Johnson and Williams.

Mr. Sumner presented a petition from colored citizens of Tennessee protesting against the reception of the Tennessee delegation until the recognition of the rights of the colored people of that State; also a petition of white citizens of the District of Columbia, asking for the extension of the right of suffrage to colored citizens.

HOUSE.

Mr. Hubbard of Conn. offered a resolution asserting that the United States should never recognise any government imposed on any nation on this continent by the arms of any European power. Referred to the committee on foreign relations.

Mr. Finch of Ohio made a speech against the radicals, denying the theory of Stevens, that the Southern States were conquered territories—He condemned any scheme looking to an interference with the rights of suffrage which should be enjoyed by the South.

Mr. Raymond took issue with Stevens, denying that the South was to be considered as having been a belligerent power, declared himself opposed to confiscation acts, which he said were not only oppressive but unchristian, and was disposed to do every thing that a patriot should to restore harmony between the sections.—(Good.)

BOSTON, Dec. 21.

The anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims will be observed by a grand military display to morrow.

More About the Telegraph.

The telegraphic correspondent of the Associated Press at Raleigh, who is the editor, we believe, of one of the newspapers in that city, needs a little looking after. He has a way of introducing little scraps of political opinion in his items of news which, although doubtless invaluable in the parallel of Raleigh, are not by any means of sufficient consequence to the people of Petersburg, to dignify with the importance of transmission by telegraph. For example, under date of Dec. 4th, he telegraphed that Gov. Graham was elected to the United States Senate by the Legislature of North Carolina, and added: "He was in the Confederate Senate, and has not been pardoned."

The next day he announced the election of Hon. JOHN POOL to the Senate, and added: "He is a Union man!"

Yesterday he sent the very superfluous information which everybody was perfectly acquainted with, that the N. C. Legislature adjourned Monday morning, but following his pet habit of injecting a little politics into the news, he adds:

"No law was passed, nor even a bill presented for the government and protection of the freedmen."

Now, we presume that every body who is at all interested in political affairs, knows perfectly well that Gov. Graham was a member of the Confederate States Senate, and has not been pardoned, and it is impossible to conceive any purpose in sending this precious item to the world, except to convey a reproach. The information that John Pool is a Union man, was equally gratuitous. He is no more a Union man than William A. Graham, and he does the body that appointed him, or the State he represents no more honor.

The same cloven foot appears in the whine about the freedmen, with which he accompanied his stale news of yesterday, and apropos, hereof we feel that we have some cause of complaint, on having also to pay for the important information yesterday, that Benj. Robinson, editor of the Fayetteville News, had been tailed—an item that was in all the Raleigh papers the day before, and that we received by mail several hours before we heard it by telegraph.

We content ourselves with mildly expostulating against paying for any more Raleigh reflections on current news from this reporter. We have never seen one that would not keep—nor one that the world would suffer for, had it never been uttered.

The truth is, that this partizanship is the curse of the Associated Press dispatches. The editors of this country pay hundreds of thousands of dollars, nay millions of dollars per annum for telegrams, and they want facts, not fancies, for their money, especially do they deplore being compelled so frequently to read, much more to pay for, the most worthless and prejudiced commentaries.

The Raleigh telegrams acquired some two months since a national reputation for utter unreliability as to fact, and though it is due to candor to say that we believe those lies did not emanate from Raleigh, still we submit that the present reporter should exercise unusual care to redeem the office from the suspicion that others have cast upon it.—Petersburg Index.

Senator Fessenden, in remarks made in debate, a day or two since, said:

"In all countries, in all nations, in a time of extreme peril, extreme and somewhat questionable measures are inevitable, but in time of peace, when we live under a written Constitution, it is our duty to come back as fast as possible—to forget, if necessary, any precedent which might, if made in times like these, have occasioned very serious difficulty and trouble."

IMPORTANT COMMUNICATION,

For the Times, and all Times, to be Considered.

The first stone in the structure of life insurance was laid by the hand of the Almighty when he planted in the human heart the generous impulses of love and affection, which prompt us to provide for our own; but the keystone is this law of average to secure which we bind ourselves together to bear each other's burdens, the stronger and richer, as the longer lives must be, helping the weaker and poorer brother that is cut down in early life, and by the universal law of compensation it gives us either the blessings of a long life, or the pleasing assurance of leaving a competency to our loved ones, as the films of death are curtaining them from our sight forever.

Times like the present make most manifest the peculiar benefit of life insurance. Business is interrupted. Men are anxious for the future. Thousands have families growing up around them whose property depends upon the continuance of the father's life. Should he die, the income would cease; the children must be withdrawn from school; the mother and elder children must resort to every expedient to sustain the family; and, in many cases, with the utmost exertion, this can not be done; the wife will return to her father for support, and the children, separated, must go, the older to seek work, and the younger be distributed among friends. Such reverses befall men the least expecting them. While business is active, and prosperity gives exhilaration and hope, men can hardly be made to feel that they are within a hand's breadth of utter reverse, and that their families may be scattered in a month, by the death of the father. But hard times lead men to think of these things.

Now if a man has insured a sum of one, five or ten thousand dollars upon his life, this anxiety is removed. While he lives, he can support his family. If he dies, ample provision is made for them.

It is every man's duty to provide for his family. That provision must include its future contingent condition. That provision, so far as it is material, men ordinarily seek to secure by their own accumulations and investments. But all these are uncertain. The man rich to-day, is, from causes beyond his reach, poor to-morrow. A war in China, a revolution in Europe, a rebellion in America, overrule ten thousand fortunes in every commercial community. But, in life insurance there are no risks or contingencies. Other investments may fail. A house may burn down. Banks may break. Bonds and mortgages may be seized for debt, and all property may fall into the bottomless gulf of bankruptcy. But money secured to your family by life insurance, will go to them without fail or interruption, provided you have selected a sound and honorable insurance company. Of two courses, one of which may leave your family destitute, and the other which assures them a comfortable support at your decease, can there be a doubt which is to be chosen?"

The benefits of life insurance are not confined to a provision for families, but are as numerous as the various circumstances of individuals. It enables a person to make a provision for a wife, a parent, a child, a friend or domestic, depending on him, as he lives secure, that while his industry is providing for their support, his savings are effectually guarding them against want in the event of his death, thus doing his whole duty toward them instead of only one half of it.

It enables a person to raise money on loan where real security can not be offered, to provide for the prompt payment of his debts in the case of his death, and to secure the eventual payment of his debts.

By it a charitable individual may donate a legacy to some beneficent institution; or a congregation a support to their minister's family in case of his death.

It provides means to reimburse the sum expended in the purchase of any life estate, on the death of the person during whose life it is held; to remove incumbrances, payable on events connected with the termination of life; and secures the return of money paid for education, for capital embarked in business, or other advances made for children or others, in the event of their premature death; and, generally, it affords a certain indemnity against any pecuniary loss whatsoever, to which one individual may become subject, by reason of the death of another.

It is a subject, then, which concerns the poor as well as the rich, the man living on his income, the mechanic the farmer, the professional man, the merchant—in short all classes of the community.

Surely, such an institution deserves the countenance, the consideration and support of all reflecting men, and is doubly recommended, when it is considered how very small a sacrifice of a personal gratification, will secure, by its means, independence and happiness of a family.

W. H. CROW, Gen'l Agent.

W. B. GULICK, Local Agent for the Etna Insurance Company. Takes risks from the age of 14 to 65.

The Test Oath.

We gave yesterday the argument of Mr. Carpenter, of Wisconsin, before the Supreme Court, against the constitutionality of the Test Oath. The following is the reply of the Attorney General:

Attorney General Speed said he rejoiced as much as Mr. Carpenter, who had just addressed the court, that peace has again returned. As he understood the argument, that gentleman has maintained that while in rebellion against the United States, Mr. Garland was still an officer of this court, with as much right to it as he had to locomotion and property. On this Mr. Speed took issue. There never was a time when Congress did not prescribe qualifications for office. The petitioner arrayed himself with those who not only endeavored to destroy this court, but the government itself, and thereby ceased to be an officer. Could not the power that made the office destroy it? If the position of the gentleman was correct, Judge Magrath, who never resigned his place as Judge of the District Court of South Carolina, but who took part in the rebellion, will be restored to his position when he is pardoned by the President. But the pardon would not certainly restore him. Take also the case of postmasters, and officers of the army and navy who participated in the rebellion.—It certainly would not be contended that a pardon would restore to them their offices and regalia. The proposition is that, by his treason, Mr. Garland did not forfeit his office; and it is insisted that an Attorney in this Court holds and office. Now there are public and private officers, as there are public and private corporations, and there are offices established in the Constitution and also by law. Is the position of an attorney a private or a public office? Is it his private property? An attorney is not admitted to the bar for the purpose of giving him office. Congress has said that the Court may establish rules, and in 1782 the qualification for the place was framed as it now stands. Other qualifications may be required, such as the examination by a board of the applicants for admission. Mr. Speed then controverted the other proposition of Mr. Carpenter. The place held by an attorney was an office; but what was the tenure? When he accepted the office, did he not know the court could prescribe such rules as would deprive him of the office. The power of Congress over the qualification was known to him when he entered upon it. The decision had been made over and over again that Congress could prescribe the qualifications. Offices are held at the will of the power conferring them, and the duties may from time to time be changed. There is nothing like a penalty in the law; it is a qualification. As to whether a qualification is a penalty depends on the standpoint. A State may say a person under 21 years shall vote, or that he shall not vote unless he possesses a qualification; and this court may say that a man practicing at its bar must have a fair character, and that he has practiced for three years in the highest court of his State. He would deprecate any act which would prevent re-union, but at the same time he would desire Congress to pass such laws as would keep out of high places those who have not been faithful to their country in the past. The time is coming, but we cannot say so yet with Mr. Carpenter, that peace reigns. The President has not yet so declared. Those who hold office under the government, but who went into rebellion, did not so behave as to entitle themselves to re-occupancy. Was there any thing in the spirit of the Constitution, was it so framed that a pardon arrests the arm of justice? A pardon prevents the infliction of punishment, but it is not a key to enable the party to unlock the offices of government. The pardon was an iron clad, so to speak, for the purpose of defence. The gentleman remarked that while the pardon says the recipient shall not be punished, the law of Congress says he shall; but the President does not say the petitioner shall practice in this Court. The President only gives him the right of every other citizen. It is the party's own fault if he cannot take the oath. It is simply to give assurance to the court that they will not admit to practice a party who has been in the rebellion. There is in the oath a statement of a fact that the party, has not been in rebellion against the United States. If so, he cannot appear in this and other legal tribunals. It is, he repeated, a fact, and not a test. It has been decided by authorities which he quoted, that while a pardon is a protection against all assaults for the thing done, it can never be the foundation for a claim. If Mr. Garland's office was forfeited when he became a public enemy, is he not coming before the Court with the President's pardon and making it the foundation of a claim? That cannot be done. It is a simple protection, not a weapon of defense, nor a key by which office can be opened. Mr. Speed admitted that to call a man who had received a pardon a "traitor" or a "felon" is actionable, but suppose it is said, "You were a traitor or a felon," this is not actionable. A pardon does not wipe out a fault it still remains. May not Congress say such facts are disqualifications. Is it not competent for Congress to say a murderer shall not stand here? Is not this embraced in the words of the rule of fair character? Can it be said that a man has a fair character who comes here after he has attempted to destroy the government? Does not that disqualify him in this court? Is it not competent for Congress to say the pardon shall not qualify a man for practice in this Court, and can not the people of a State say through their delegated authority that a man who has committed a homicide shall never vote or hold office? What more power have the people in convention than Congress has under the constitution? Congress can prescribe the qualifications of candidates for office. Congress has power just as plenary.—Mr. Speed maintains, then, that the qualifications of law is not a penalty. He looked upon it as something which Congress may make it the duty of the Court to embrace. After further argument, Mr. Speed said he wanted all the powers the government exercised for the purpose of bringing about peace. No government had ever passed through so many trials as our own in the last four years. The slumbering powers of the Constitution, when the war commenced, were found as adequate for domestic as for foreign wars. Mr. Garland did, by reason of his antagonistic position, when he engaged in rebellion, become a public enemy, and thus vacated the office which he held. The pardon did not restore him, nor give the petitioner a right he did not otherwise possess. He repeated, the oath prescribed by Congress was a qualification, and not a penalty, and it was competent for Congress to prescribe it. The oath was just, both in letter and spirit.
